“Very polished and soigné. Really very pretty though without great intensity. Lovely lift and charm. Another very good first-growth second wine .”

The Future

Second wines have proved a rich source of returns for investors for just over ten years and Petit Mouton has made a return on investment in each of the last ten, including financially volatile years like 2010 and 2011. In the last 12 months alone, the 2009, 2010 and 2012 vintages have appreciated by 40%, 50% and 49% respectively.

As interest in the second wines of the Classified First Growths of Bordeaux continues to increase, demand will continue to drive up prices and continue to ensure returns for investors.
